On the 23rd November The Local Angels Annual Lunch, held at the Four Seasons Hotel in Canary Wharf, was a sell out, raising £10,000 for Redbridge and Essex-based Jewish Care services. The event attracted 150 ladies who enjoyed a reception followed by a three-course gourmet lunch and raffle with superb musical entertainment provided by Brett Warren and Ross Wall together with special guests Brendan & Phil. The event was sponsored by Citroen Wolf Publishing and Andrew Green .

Michelle Lucas Local Angels committee member welcomed her guests with an original speech written in rhyming couplets:

"I am delighted to see so many of you here
Championing our efforts with gusto and cheer
You are all Local Angels and we thank you for your support..."

Gayle Klein, Local Angels committee chair, reminded guests that the Local Angels have raised close to £50,000 since the committee was established in 2008. She added: "Jewish Care urgently needs to replace its fleet of Care Buses which provide the transport and lifeline for so many elderly in our community who use the RJCC, the Dennis Centre and Mitkadem facilities. The Local Angels have decided to ring fence the monies raised this year to assist Jewish Care in this huge, unavoidable cost."

She introduced the guest speaker Jeni Barnett who regaled guests with a series of witty and very amusing stories relating to her lengthy career in radio and television broadcasting. She went on to thank Jewish Care for its support for her mother who has recently become a resident at their Hyman Fine home in Brighton. "I don't know what I would have done without Jewish Care. It was there for me, they listened and they helped me find the right way to support my mum."
